Wine Spectator's Award of Excellence is given to restaurants with thoughtfully chosen selections appropriate for the cuisine and representative of a range of regions and styles.

"Winning a Restaurant Award from Wine Spectator means that you are in the company of the world's greatest beverage programs," said Zachary Kameron, wine director of new Best of Award of Excellence winner Peak in New York. "For me personally, it means validation for all of the overnights, marathon stocking sessions, tirelessly poring over distributor inventories and offerings, and all of the other efforts that go into putting a wine program together."

— Cassia Schifter, Wine Spectator

More than 2,900 restaurants have earned Restaurant Awards from Wine Spectator in 2021, representing all 50 states and 72 countries and territories. Out of the 15 award winning restaurants this year in the state of Montana, TEN is the only restaurant in Yellowstone County.
